INFLATION

Inflation is an economic concept that refers to the sustained increase in the general price level of goods and services in an economy over time. When inflation occurs, each unit of currency buys fewer goods and services than it did before. In other words, inflation erodes the purchasing power of money. Inflation can be caused by various factors, including an increase in the supply of money, excessive government spending, rising production costs, or changes in consumer demand. It is typically measured by calculating the percentage change in a price index, such as the Consumer Price Index (CPI), which tracks the average price of a basket of goods and services commonly purchased by households.
